April 18. 1862

My dear Jennie:

Yours of the 15th inst enclosing photograph of sister Sarah, received this evening. I like her picture very much
- she looks spotless, possessed of womanly pride, and like one who spurs with her whole nature, everything that is not good and noble. By the way, she seems to me a little puritanical gentle ~~but~~ yet austere - like one having fixed principles in life - yet full of heart, impulses and soul. She would find great happiness in the Catholic Church I wish she were not a cold protestant.

I really am ~~one~~ ^{more} more anxious about our little pet - poor little cherub! tell me Jennie, that she is well, and,
as she says herself, "Gay and happy" again.
Her yours. P. McGuire
